When the first HOLDEN UTE was built it was designed for the "man on the land" and as a small delivery vehicle. Little did GMH know that this design and useage would change over the years to be Australia's favourite "tradie" ute.. Australia's first fully manufactured car model, the FX Holden, soon became a favourite for most Australian car buyers.

With my turbo 350 I didnt run the kickdown, if I wanted to go back a gear I just shifted it myself. Have they got the vacume module that runs a vacume hose to the inlet manifold, usually at the back of the box,if so maybe it is split as it sounds like there is no vacume getting to the box so it knows what is going on.
